Bar Coding Capabilities

AirBorn has the capability of providing bar coded labels on packages shipped to our customers. Labels can be custom designed to the customer's specifications or to the EIA-556 and ANSI standards.

Most commonly used are the "3 of 9" type bar codes, with human readable text above or below the bar. The labels can list the customer's purchase order number, line item, part number, date code, or any other specific information requested by the customer.

When requesting custom labels, the customers must provide detailed specifications for the label format, layout and usage.
